1. As set forth in the previous office actions, the use of the trademark "Channel Lock" has been noted in this application. It must be capitalized wherever it appears and be accompanied by the generic terminology. See page 2, line 15 of the specification.

Although the use of trademarks is permissible in patent applications, the proprietary nature of the marks should be respected and every effort made to prevent their use in any manner which might adversely affect their validity as trademarks.

Appropriate correction is required in response to this office action.

2. Claims 10-12 and 22-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 10, lines 7-8 are misdescriptive since the first and second members are not disposed between the handles and the jaws. As best understood, "disposed" should be changed to ---,said pivot member being disposed---.

3. Claims 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The original disclosure, including the drawings and specification, does not provide support for "an edge" in claim 11 and "a planar edge" in claim 12. Such new matter must be deleted from the claims.

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 10-12 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Negus (5,595,094).

Note figures 1 and 2 of Negus.

It is noted that a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 370 F.2d 576, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 312 F.2d 937, 939, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). Negus is capable of performing the intended use of gripping a locknut.

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

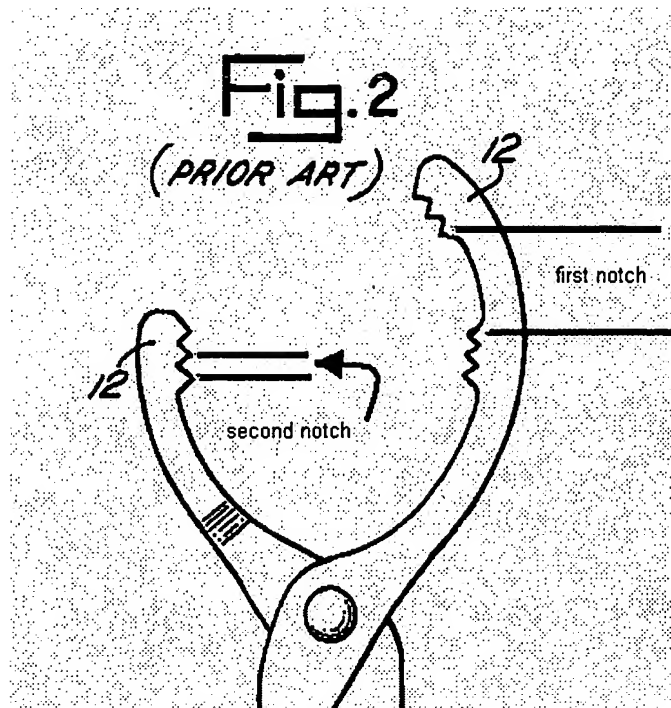

7. Claim 23 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Negus (5,595,094) in view of Gagne or Schaub.

Negus discloses all of the claimed subject matter except for the first notch surfaces comprising adjacent rectilinear surfaces. Gagne or Schaub disclose a jaw having a notch being formed with adjacent rectilinear surfaces. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to form the notch of Negus with adjacent rectilinear surfaces to allow for the engagement of protrusions as taught by Gagne or Schaub.

8. Applicant's arguments filed November 18, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive and are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

It is noted that a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 370 F.2d 576, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 312 F.2d 937, 939, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). Negus is capable of performing the intended use of gripping a locknut.

Negus discloses a jaw that is more distally disposed than the opposing jaw and a first notch that is more distally disposed than the second notch located on the opposing jaw. Note figure 2 of Negus below.
